New Paragon 31 debuts during Volvo Ocean Race

On Saturday, June 13 the Paragon 31 – a new model from Paragon Yachts – will make her official debut during the Volvo Ocean Race in Stockholm. During the race's stop in Stockholm the Paragon 31 will serve as official VRC Security Boat.

"The Paragon 31 is a boat for discriminating boaters with the highest demands for performance and seaworthiness. It's built to handle the most challenging environments imaginable, all year round," says Magnus Andersson, CEO of Nimbus Boats, Paragon Yacht's owner.

The boat is the second model in a generation of year-round boats that build on the successful Paragon 25 concept. The Paragon 31 has good storage and a plan that provides spacious areas with room for the entire family and activities at sea.

Paragon's philosophy, which was developed by Sakari Mattila, is based on a careful preliminary study, collaboration and development together with Search and Rescue, the Coast Guard, racers and professionals who work in demanding environments at sea.

"This is a boat for connoisseurs. It is spacious and practical, easy and safe to drive and maneuver, and it features an innovative and understated Scandinavian design," says Magnus Andersson.

The boat has a pronounced v-hull, which provides great stability while maneuvering at high speeds and keeps fuel consumption down to about 1.8 liters per nautical mile for the D6-370 engine option. Maximum speed is about 38 knots.
